Darryl McEvoy re Cry Baby Creek

Darryl: Anybody's that been down Bee Creek mustering, Del know that there's a little creek down there named Cry Baby Creek. Its between the Arnotts and Mt Tooth anyway my Great Uncle Tim, was telling me it was before his time and there were musterers down there and they heard a little baby crying they don't know whether the mother has taken fright and run off but they left the little baby behind. I don't know where it goes from there but that's how the creek got its name and a lot say that he was known as Eungella Mick after that. That's how Cry Baby Creek got its name.

Del: A little dark baby was it?

Darryl: A little dark baby yes.

Del: So it was reared by somebody else?

Darryl: Yes they took it away with them.
